SARAH JOY MILLER AND DAVID MILLER FEATURED IN OPERA CONCERT

One of the most popular concerts at the annual St Barth Music Festival is the opera evening, held at the Catholic Church in Lorient. This year, on Friday, January 15 at 8pm, the opera program comprises a list of popular arias and songs from Madame Butterfly, Rigoletto, and Romeo and Juliette to My Fair Lady, Porgy and Bess, and West Side Story, conducted by maestro Steven Mercurio (see full program online: www.stbartsmusicfestival.org). The line-up of singers comprises sopranos Sarah Joy Miller and Chiara Tiagi, tenors David Miller and Richard Troxell, and bass baritone Jamie Offenbach, with Brian Lewis on solo violin.

Soprano Sarah Joy Miller and her husband, tenor David Miller, are festival favorites, returning after a year's absence. They first came to the festival through their association with maestro Mercurio, as Sarah started working with him on her first album in about 2011. "We fell in love with the island and the opportunity to sing with the fabulous musicians at the festival," she says. "We didn't know what to expect the first time, but it's a lot of fun and we know most of the pieces."

Sarah's professional operatic debut was the role of Mimi in Baz

Lurhmann's Broadway production of La Boheme, where she first met her future husband, David "We don't work together as often as we'd like," she admits, although they both performed in La Traviata in Palm Beach and Faust at The Michigan Opera. "We also do a lot of concerts with this kind of mixed repertory like in Saint Barth."

In terms of the island, Sarah Joy not only likes the sense of luxury but also the simplicity: "There is something very healing about this island, and it has a very friendly environment. It's like home for people who have come a few times. The festival has all first chairs and star players, so it's not like a normal orchestra. It's very exhilarating to sing with an orchestra full of that kind of talent."

David Miller agrees, noting that “the quality and sensitivity of every musician here is amazing, they get it on the first go, and it’s a lot of fun, we rarely have to stop the rehearsal.” He is also a fan of the island: “The environment is spectacular to begin with, and the acoustics in the church are incredible.” He notes that the conductor and the singers curate the repertory for the opera evening, keeping in mind the repertory they are comfortable with, while also considering the audience. “There is a list of greatest hits that people know, such as Carmen and La Traviata, then they graduate to other operas with more interesting dissonance, melodies, and emotions. I like to balance the more obscure operas with the favorites,” says the tenor, who will sing such arias as “Pourquoi Me Reveiller” from Massenet’s Werther.

“Maestro Mercurio always has a few tricks up his sleeve, and he has worked with a lot of singers and orchestras,” notes David. “He is flexible but has a wonderful depth of understanding and keeps it light, so that it’s fun.” After all, he says, “We’re making music here!”

NEW RECORD NUMBER OF BOATS AND WHO'S WHO IN THE HARBOR

On December 31, the Port of Gustavia established a new record, with 402 boats at the docks and the inner and outer harbor. Of these, 237 were here just for the end-of-the-year festivities, including motor yachts (in descending order by size) Roman Abromovich's impressive Eclipse at 533 feet, as well as the 452' Ris- ing Sun, which currently belongs to producer David Geffen, one of the original founders of DreamWorks. Others include the 135' Limitless, a yacht belonging to Leslie Wexner, whose companies include Victoria's Secret; the 303' Tatoosh, which was anchored at the commercial dock and belongs to Paul Allen, who co-founded Microsoft with Bill Gates; Lady Lara at 299', owned by the oligarch of Kazakhstan, Alexander Machkevich; and hedge fund manager Edward Lampert's 287' Fountainhead, which did not celebrate the New Year here, having left on December 30.

Also spotted were the 286' Phoenix, belonging to the heirs of the late Polish oligarch, Jan Kulczyk; Nancy Walton Laurie's 270' Secret (she is part of the Walmart family); American businessman (whose holdings include Revlon) Ronald Perlman's C2 (pronounced C Two) at 257'; Anastasia (247 feet), belonging to another Russian oligarch, Vladimir Potanine, (net worth of 12.6 billion dollars last year according to Forbes); Yalla (240 feet), the vessel owned by Naguib Sawiris, an Egyptian telecommunications tycoon; Skat (231 feet), owned by high-tech pioneer Charles Simonyi; Anna (219 feet), the yacht of Dimitry Rybolovlev, another

AT THE AIRPORT, ONE PLANE EVERY 97 SECONDS

A few fabulous sailboats were on hand as well, including the 184' Perini Navi yacht, Rosehearty, once owned by press magnate Rupert Murdoch, and another beautiful Perini Navi, the 148' Helios, which sailed in the New Year's Eve Regatta...

The airport was also in a state of frenzy during the holiday period, with the busiest days on December 27 (195 landings and takeoffs), on January 2 (230 planes in or out), January 3 (252 planes), and January 4 (221 planes). Yet the all-time record number was on January 4, 2014, with 276 landings and takeoffs. On Sunday, January 3, to fly large crowds off the island, there was a peak of 37 takeoffs and landings recorded between 10am and 11am, or one plane every 97 seconds. Throughout 2015, a total of 35,538 takeoffs and landings were recorded at the airport, according to figures provided by its director. This represents an increase of 3.2% for the year, and a number not seen since 2007, according to the airport.

SAINT BARTH FUN CUP 2016

TOP WINDSURFERS IN SAINT BARTH, JANUARY 27-31 FOR THE FIFTH EDITION

© Julian Schlosser

In late January, windsurfing heavyweights will be on the island for the fifth annual Saint Barth Fun Cup, which sets sail from January 27-31, 2016. This event has become an important rendezvous on the calendar of nautical events in Saint Barth, as well as the agenda for top professionals in the sport. With three days of competition, the Fun Cup allows for a warm-up before the debut of the various world championships (slalom, vague, freestyle...). And this year, a number of top competitors will be present, such as Sarah-Quita Offringa, who won two world titles last year, in slalom and freestyle. Other leading ladies include Delphine Cousin from France, world champion in 2013-2014, as well as Marion Mortefon. Among the men, keep an eye on Pierre Mortefon, who took second place in the Slalom World Cup in 2015, behind Antoine Albeau.

Also hot is the king of freestyle, Taty Frans, who won the Fun Cup last year, and the legendary Björn Dunkerbeck, with 41 world titles, the most of any athlete, no matter which sport. Also expected are such pros as Camille Juban and Antoine Martin, who stood out in the Tour of Guadeloupe. Plus slalom experts Pascal Toselli, Alexandre Cousin, and Tristan Algret. And of course the local favorite, Antoine Questel, double champion of France and number 10 worldwide last year. Since the first edition of the Saint Barth Fun Cup, Antoine Questel has been the co-organizer, along with Arnaud Daniel, and has won twice — in 2013 and 2014.

In addition to these professionals there is also a large group of amateurs passionate about the sport. They come from neighboring islands, France, and other countries to compete. Among them, some are close in talent to the pros, proof that the competition will be stiff. “50% of those registered are under 25 years old,” notes Daniel, who races as well as acts as co-organizer. For students on the island, the organizers have added an introductory windsurfing session, led by the pros, on Wednesday, January 27, soon after the opening of the race village on the beach in Saint Jean. The schedule comprises three days of racing on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, on the Bay of St Jean. Plus: a party with a DJ open to the public on Saturday evening, at 9pm, at the sports complex in St Jean (near the dorms). On Sunday, the awards ceremony takes place at 11am at the race village. Keep your fingers crossed for strong winds!

on the planning map for the neighboring island of St Martin. There, the process to adopt the map was stopped by the question of “50 pas geometriques,” with demonstrations and roadblocks. On our island, Duprat’s task should be somewhat easier. It consists of “creating a workable document that stands up in court,” he explains. Yet one can expect a fair number of law suits to contest land that is deemed buildable or not. Duprat has been hired through June 30, 2016, by which date the Collectivity hopes to produce its new map. Until then, the next steps concern the role of the Territorial Council, which once again has to debate the future planning policy of the island.

Starting last November, the Collectivity has had an official expert working on a new land development map for Saint Barth. The administrative court rejected the previous attempt to create a new map in late 2013 for various reasons, including the presentation of the document, some of which was considered illegible. The person in question is Jean-Marie Duprat, an engineer/land surveyor and land-use expert who has been working
