Art For Our Oceans

The Territorial Council of Saint Barthélemy is joining forces with Art Saint Barth and Parley for the Oceans to present a one-of-a-kind program 'ART FOR OUR OCEANS' this winter to raise awareness for the beauty and fragility of the environment, as we are at a critical moment in time to create an impact on our oceans.

Mix And Mingle

It's that time of year, when Saint Barth starts to fill up for the holidays. It's also the time when the calendar gets crowded with so many activities it's hard to keep up.

This weekend for example, the Christmas Village continues on the main dock in Gustavia with live music in the evenings. The market itself is a wonderful way to do a little holiday shopping and support local merchants and artisans. And my brother-in-law's band (he is an ace on the accordion) will be leading spirited Christmas Carols at the Village on Friday night.

Also on Friday evening is the opening of an art exhibit at the Wall House Museum, with a select group of artworks and sculptures by contemporary artists such as Katharina Grosse, Ed Ruscha, Jeppe Hein, Kenny Scharf, Tatiana Trouvé, Julio Le Parc, Jenny Holzer, Jiří Georg Dokoupil and Rosemarie Trockel, as well as Doug Doug Aitken's film, Underwater Pavilions. This event is organized in conjunction with Art Saint Barth, a cultural association founded by Philippe Combres and Jenny Mannerheim (see our article about their 'Art For Our Oceans' project in this issue of The Weekly).

For those who love art, be sure to stop by Space Gallery and Les Artisans, both in Gustavia. Les Artisans will get you right in the St Barth spirit with paintings and pastels by Alain le Chatelier, Gery Langlais, and Jérémy Kraft... You can bring your favorite St Barth scenes right into your home.

Hannukah also starts this weekend, on Sunday, December 18, with a first-night candle lighting at the Chabad in Gustavia and a final-night candle lighting on the main dock with the giant menorah on Sunday, December 25. So, Happy Hannukah to all who celebrate this festival of light!

Firefighters of St Barth: Celebrations, Interventions, and Modernization

Over the weekend of Sainte Barbe, the firefighters met with the public on several occasions (Photo @comstbarth).

St Barth's territorial firefighters celebrated their patron saint, Sainte Barbe, on the weekend of December 3-4. This annual fete comprises events for the public and an official ceremony. From games for kids at the fire station and sporting events at Les Mangliers to a parade in the streets of Gustavia... it was, as it is every year, a major celebration. But it was also time for a report about their activities over the course of the past year.

1,121 Interventions In 2022

During the ceremony at the fire station in Saint Jean, lieutenant Christophe Laurens, commander of the local firefighters, made his report in front of a group of officials. He explained that there have been 1,121 interventions since the beginning of 2022. Last year, at the same time, there were only 856 such actions. "The reason for the increase is mostly due to the absence of medical transportation on the island," explains lieutenant Laurens. As a consequence, the firefighters are also obligated to serve as ambulance drivers. For example, in 2022, there were more than 90 medical evacuations.

In parallel to this high level of activity in 2022, the fire brigade is also in the process of modernization. First in terms of new vehicles, as well as improving their readiness for hurricane season with additional training and coordination exercises with other services, etc.

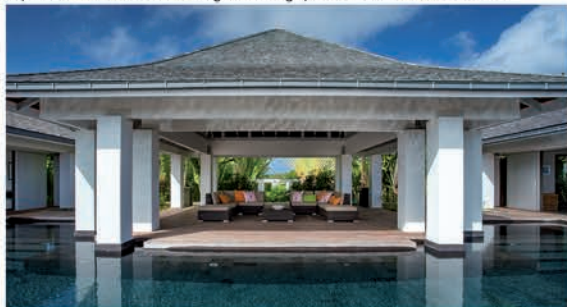

The brigade has reinforced its medical service with the arrival of doctor Pauline Caudron. The firefighters also took part in various training sessions away from Saint Barth, including medical training, piloting of drones, aquatic rescues, and interventions inside of nautical vessels.

In 2023, recruitment will be a main focus. They have already launched a campaign to engage new firefighters; a need that is more and more pressing due to the ever-increasing number of people on the island, especially during high season. Candidates can pick up an application form at the fire station in St Jean, which will soon be replaced by a newer, larger station currently under construction.

UNICEF Gala On Site Of Former Emeraude Place Hotel

This year's LuisaViaRoma UNICEF gala will take place in Saint Barth on Thursday, December 29. Rather than at Eden Rock like last year, the event will be on the site of the former Emeraude Plage Hoel in Saint Jean. The organizers decided to keep the gala in Saint Jean, yet the exact spot is a but unexpected as it's just a big sandy lot.

Since the decision handed down on December 23, 2021 by the administrative in Basse-Terre (Guadeloupe), which invalidated the two building permits issued by the Collectivité to the SAS Saint Jean Real Beach Estate Invest for the Hotel Etoile, the land has been being returned to its natural state. That was a legal obligation of the verdict. "The land was filled in and has been secured," confirms Xavier Lédée, president of the Collectivité, who confirms that everything related to the organization of this event will be "closely monitored."

The Collectivité was asked to make a temporary storage area available to the organizers. This is located in Saint Jean, behind the stadium. "They asked if they could pay us for using it, but I suggested instead that they raffle prizes for the benefit of other islands in need, such as Haiti, to show the solidarity of Saint Barthélemy," indicates Lédée, who adds: "This is an event that will impact daily life in the neighborhood and the island. WE are going to have meetings with the organizers, the territorial police, and the gendarmerie. Primary to discuss such questions as parking and traffic, so everything runs as smoothly as possible." Last year, in spite of the efforts made by the organizers, there were still disturbances that resulted in many comments and criticisms by the population.

Five buildings, including one which is rather imposing, will be constructed on this former hotel site for the night of the gala. They will be used, respectively, for photos as the guests arrive, a cocktail party, dressing rooms for the musicians, and a catering area. The fifth space, which is the largest, is the main venue for the dinner and the concert. "A security commission will stop by 11 days before the event to make an inspection," explains Lédée.

In Saint Jean, a storage area was generously lent to the organizers of the UNICEF gala by the Collectivité.

TABLES OVER 400,000 EUROS

The website for Cornucopia Events reveals certain details about the gala event on Thursday, December 29. The evening starts with a cocktail party, a gala dinner, and a charity auction to raise money for UNICEF projects that help children in need. Plus, a concert by Lenny Kravitz and Drake. Other celebrities include Adriana Lima, John Legend, Chrissy Teigen, Katy Perry, Ricky Martin, Dua Lipa, Orlando Bloom, Heidi Klum, Emily Ratajkowski, Vanessa Hudgens, and others. Ticket prices vary from 17,000 to 40,000 euros per person, or 145,000 to 405,000 euros per table of 12. In 2021, the gala raised 4 million euros.

Real estate talk with Zarek Honneysett, CEO of Sibarth Real Estate

Can you give us an overview of the market?

Throughout the last few years, working in real estate on St Barts has meant taking part in one of the most interesting industries. The sudden desire of buyers to secure secondary homes had a noticeable effect on the market, bringing the inventory of properties for sale at record lows. The great influx of new buyers, associated to the reluctance of many owners to sell, did put a lot of pressure on the market but at this stage we do see it starting to ease back into a "normal cycle". More properties are coming back on the market, many confidentially, although not in some sought after price ranges.

Any advice when looking for properties ?

Whether you are a seller or a buyer, it's crucial to fully understand the dynamics of the local market. We are often shocked when so called statistics are published by brokers or non-professionals in the absence of any data backing their claims.

Only a trustworthy professional can correctly advise and steer a client in the course of his search in this competitive environment. Viewings should not be limited to securing a fee for a broker: it should only be a small part of the educational process for those customers who do need guidance in view of our specific environment, namely in terms of urbanism and tax regulations.

What is different about the company that you lead?

Our striking office at the entrance of Gustavia can't be missed but, behind those doors, our dedicated team has been providing professional advice since 1975, with trust and discretion. Our 8 team members have deep roots on the island and they all care about its preservation and its future. Through our network partners, Christie's International Real Estate and Luxury Portfolio, we offer international visibility, expert advice, and enhanced marketing collaborations. Locally, our exclusive partnership with Eden Rock Villa Rental - a company with 5-star luxury expertise - allows us to provide our clients with unparalleled services when buying, selling, or renting properties.

What's new at Sibarth Real Estate?

I am thrilled to lead a team which is constantly strengthening its leader position in the

Zarek Honneysett and the team of Sibarth Real Estate

St. Barts market. Some of our marketing tools needed an upgrade to stay ahead of our customer's expectations and to reflect the technological innovations of our world. Today we are extremely proud to launch our new website www.sibarthrealestate.com which reflects the image of our real estate agency, innovative, expert, and open to the future, the most exhaustive platform for your real estate needs in St Barth. Our latest annual magazine, offering customers a glimpse of our brokerage and of some of our outstanding properties is also just out, highlighting our company's values turned towards the future and the expectations of new generations.

How do you see things in the upcoming years?

In a regularly turbulent world, there are a lot of reasons to be optimistic about the St Barth real estate market, a proven safe and still fun investment. The island looks more and more beautiful, with much of its utilities networks recently buried underground. The huge investments of the last few years in houses, hotels, restaurants and general island infrastructure allow visitors and residents alike to benefit from an incredible selection of exceptional places to stay and dine. Among those clients from around the world, attracted by our ambiance and character, some might want to go a step further and invest in their holiday or primary home.

Gustavia Yacht Club:

Third Annual Photography Contest

In 2022, Steven Lapkin won 1st Prize Ulysse Nardin

The Gustavia Yacht Club has announced its Third Annual International Photography Contest for 2023, with "Wind In The Sails," as the theme. Members of the jury include: Saint Barth territorial president Xavier Lédée; commodore of the Gustavia Yacht Club, Sir Stelios Haji-Ioannou; owner of the beautifully restored J Class Ranger, Nicholas Vita; and Tucker Thompson, former pro-sailor and TV host who has served as official commentator for the America's Cup in the USA.

By invitation, this contest features the work of professional photographers, with approximately 100 to be selected for 2023 (the participants from the first two years will help in choosing the invited photographers for the third edition).

The awards ceremony, which will include an auction for the benefit of the SNSM (French National Rescue At Sea Association) and a display of the 10 best photos, will take place during Monaco Classic Week, organized by the Monaco Yacht Club for traditional sailing yachts and vintage motorboats, September 13-16, 2023 (In 2024 the ceremony will be in Saint Barth at Manapany).

The top sponsor is Tradewind Aviation (free tickets USA-SBH), while additional sponsors include B Signature Hotel Group (Manapany and hotels in Paris: a weekend in their most beautiful suite); and the Collectivité de Saint Barthélemy. New prizes offered by the Gustavia Yacht Club: First Prize 3,000€; Second Prize 2,000€; Third Prize 1,000€.

The calendar for the event calls for invitations to photographers and submission of their images in May-June 2023; Voting by the jury in July-August 2023; and the prize ceremony mid-September 2023 in Monaco.

TWO NEW TRAFFIC CIRCLES IN SAINT JEAN

On November 17, the Collectivité put out a call for proposals for a feasibility study for the construction of a traffic circle in Saint Jean. This will be located by the exit to the airport. But it will not be the only new infrastructure of its kind to be built in Saint Jean. In fact, a second traffic circle will be added by the exit of the new fire station in Saint Jean (which is being built across from the old station). A third traffic circle, currently at the entry to Les Mangliers, will be moved, and repositioned closer to the center of the road that leads to the sports stadium. These projects should get underway in 202

COLLECTIVITÉ'S NEW RULES AGAINST NOISE POLLUTION

Two new decrees, dated November 10 and November 23, add to the Collectivité's arsenal of rules and regulations to fight against noise pollution on the island. Particularly in the goal to "regulate construction work." The first decree concerns work done by construction companies and individuals comprising the use of jack hammers or concrete cutters. Such work is now regulated as follows: Monday through Friday, 7am to 12pm and 2pm to 5pm; and 7am to 12pm and 3pm to 5pm in the area around schools. On Saturday, construction companies can work from 7am to 12pm ("with the exception of hydraulic rock crushers, electric or pneumatic jack hammers, or concrete cutters" according to the Collectivité). Individuals can work at home from 8:30am to 12pm and 3pm to 5pm, including gardening and odd jobs. On Sunday and holidays, there is a total interdiction of noise for businesses and individuals.

Art Saint Barth Presents 'Art For Our Oceans'

The Territorial Council of Saint Barthélemy is joining forces with Art Saint Barth, a cultural association founded by Philippe Combres and Jenny Mannerheim, and Parley for the Oceans to present a one-of-a-kind program 'Art For Our Oceans' this winter to raise awareness for the beauty and fragility of the environment, as we are at a critical moment in time to create an impact on our oceans. They will unveil American artist Doug Aitken's new large-scale installation, Underwater Pavilions, to highlight the ecology of the island, with the support of The Territorial Environment Agency, and local associations in St Barth.

At the same time, Art Saint Barth x Parley will show the work of world-renowned contemporary artists including Katharina Grosse, Ed Ruscha, Jeppe Hein, Kenny Scharf, Tatiana Trouvé, Julio Le Parc, Jenny Holzer, Jiří Georg Dokoupil, and Rosemarie Trockel at the Wall House Museum, December 16, 2022—February 11, 2023. Also view will be the film Underwater Pavilions produced by Aitken. The movie is atmospheric, showing the sculpture's geometric mirrors attracting the curiosity of a passing seal as well as many fish. Aitken's video projects involve the perceptual, narrative, and poetic possibilities opened up by a constantly changing global technological environment.

Art Saint Barth announces its first winter benefit gala to raise funds to support the joint mission of the Territorial Environment Agency, the local associations, and Parley to protect the island of St Barth and the surrounding Caribbean Islands. It will be held at the historic Wall House Museum, set along the waterfront in Gustavia, on Tuesday, December 27 and will be an evening with a live auction, special performance, and a culinary experience provided by Eden Rock. EVERY DROP IN THE OCEAN COUNTS: Join us in our mission. For more info or to buy tickets: artforouroceans.com

Combres and Mannerheim note: "We are at a moment where we see first-hand the daily destruction of the environment caused by society. Being in St Barth, we are surrounded by the magnificent blue ocean and we jointly want to protect what we love."

About the Underwater Pavilions

The Underwater Pavilions are both aesthetic and scientific and put the local marine environment and the global challenges around ocean conversation in dialogue with the history of art, inviting the viewer to write a contemporary narrative of the ocean and to participate in its protection.

The work consists of three temporary underwater sculptures, floating beneath the ocean's surface that swimmers, snorkelers, and scuba divers swim through and experience. Geometric in design, the sculptures create underwater spaces synthesizing art and science as they are constructed with carefully researched materials and will be moored to the ocean floor. Part of each structure is mirrored to reflect the underwater seascape and create a kaleidoscopic observatory for the viewer, while other surfaces are rough and rock-like.

"When we look at the oceans we see the idea of continuous change and flow continuous encounters – it's very much like the society we're creating for ourselves now in the 21st century." — Doug Aitken, Artist & Filmmaker
