Menashe Kadishman on view at Space Gallery

What If?

‘T was the night before Christmas and all through the house nothing was stirring... because the electricity had gone out! Seriously folks, the local electric company has been threatening a strike, with a list of eight demands that need to be met by the management, and the Collectivité in one instance. Hopefully by the time you read this, the issues have been resolved and the strike has been averted. If not, it could be rather dark at the busiest time of the year.

In recent weeks, the island government has asked people to cut their electrical energy consumption. You might be surprised to learn that alternative energies have not been adopted here and the only source of producing electricity is burning fossil fuels. Why haven't natural options such as the sun and the wind been harnessed one might ask?

We have also been asked to conserve water. One might ask why permits were given for homes with multiple swimming pools or really long pools—on an island with no fresh water. Every drop is collected from the rain, or produced at a desalination plant.

Let's face it, the island's infrastructure is fragile and slightly fraying. So while you are spending time on this beautiful little Caribbean pebble of an island, please do what you can to help. Turn off the AC and sleep with the windows open. Chances are you might hear the sound of the waves lapping against the shore. And turn off the pool heater and dive in for a refreshing swim. Live like people have lived here for hundreds of years: at one with nature!

THE PORT OF GUSTAVIA CONTINUES IMPROVEMENTS

In addition to the large job of adding rocks by the entry to the harbor, the Port of Gustavia has been undergoing a series of improvements over the past few months. First, there was an urgent need to reinforce the Quai de la République, with its berths for yachts. New bollards were also installed.

At the same time, work on the ferry terminal continues. A departure hall will be built in wood on the concrete slab that is there now, to replace the pergolas that currently serve to shelter maritime travelers. Benches will also be added. “This means passengers will no longer have to wait in the sun or the rain,” notes port director Ernest Brin. “This new configuration should make passenger traffic more fluid. We are also going to move the gate which will make docking easier for the boats.”

Work has also been taking place at the “charter” dock (between the ferry terminal and the fish market). “We were able to add 15 meters, which will ease congestion and make it easier for yacht tenders to dock,” explains Brin. In addition, signage will be improved with new informational panels along the docks.

At the commercial dock, work has been done to improve the storage hangar (visible from the road in Public). The goals are to build a sidewalk along the road for pedestrians, and more importantly add additional electrical outlets for refrigerated containers. At the same time, work to extend the eastern end of the unloading dock is scheduled to begin in the beginning of the new year.

A Colorful Herd

Space Gallery St Barth is proud to present a selection of early paintings by Israeli artist Menashe Kadishman (1932-2015) in partnership with the artist's estate.

Quite possibly Israel's most famous artist, Kadishman is best known for his colorful portrait paintings of sheep and evocative iron sculptures. Winner of the prestigious Israel Prize for sculpture, Kadishman represented Israel at the 1978 Venice Biennale where his work made an international stir.

The artist's most iconic works stemmed from his years working as a shepherd on a kibbutz. The sheep/ram became the major motif in his work. The former shepherd Kadishman once stated, "sheep are a part of me" and used his art to imbue the animal with a holy-like reverence.

His portrait paintings of sheep are at once a symbol of the spirit of the pioneers who built the modern state of Israel and a reference to the biblical sacrifice of Isaac, which represents the sacrifice of fathers and mothers who send their sons to war and thus the sheep becomes a symbol for young soldiers in battle, for victims of war. For Kadishman, sacrifice is part of the cycle of Israeli life.

His work can be found in permanent collections of numerous prestigious international art museums including the Metropolitan Museum of Art in NYC, MOMA, The Tate Gallery London, and the Uffizi Gallery, Florence.

EDF: NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN MANAGEMENT AND THE SYNDICATE

Ten days after notification of their intention to go on strike, the syndicate CTE-CFDT for the EDF in Saint Barth, the management of EDF Archipel Guadeloupe replied to the negotiation points on the table. However, it won't be until after the general assembly on Thursday, December 22, that the decision to maintain the strike, planned from Friday, December 23 through January 3, will be made.

The start of the negotiations was hardly encouraging. Yet after the ten days since the intention for the EDF (electric company) to strike was announced (on December 9) for the period between December 23 and January 3, discussions with the management of EDF Archipel Guadeloupe have improved. In fact, last night, the syndicate seemed appeased by the written proposals made by the management.

"They gave in on certain points, but for the cost of living they want us to negotiate with Collectivité," notes the syndicate. To follow up, representatives of the syndicate met with the fourth vice president of the Collectivité, Maxime Desouches, who is responsible for energy. "He told us he would talk to president Xavier Lédée to find a solution," confirms the syndicate, which is asking for reduced prices from the ferry companies so that the EDF agents in Saint Barth can go regularly to Saint Martin to do their shopping.

Strike Up To The Agents

The list of demands was examined by the EDF Archipel Guadeloupe management: "We had a meeting on December 14, and replied as best we could on all the points." Last night, the syndicate examined those responses in order to present them to the EDF agents in Saint Barth, today, Thursday. Some of the points were received positively, and to meet the staff shortage that exists, the management will launch a recruitment campaign to hire three people and relocate one in the first months of 2023. In terms of equal rank with their counterparts in Saint Martin, the management noted the changes will happen next year. "We will present their answers to the agents in Saint Barth," notes the syndicate. "Then we will know if everyone is in agreement or if the strike will start on Friday." The CTE-CFDT syndicate agrees that a large effort was made by the EDF management and the Collectivité. Now it's up to the agents to decide.

CANDLE LIGHTING ON THE DOCK, DECEMBER 25

The Jewish community of Saint Barth celebrates the last night of Hanukkah, the festival of lights, on the main dock in Gustavia on Sunday, December 25, at 6:30pm. Led by rabbi Yitzchok Gurewitsch, the ceremony includes the lighting of the large Hanukkah menorah, with homemade donuts and latkes. The holiday marks the miracle of one day's worth of lamp oil lasting for eight days after the recovery of the temple in Jerusalem from the Greeks in the year 166 BC. The word Hanukkah means rededication.

CNSB HONORED BY THE FRENCH SAILING FEDERATION

During the Nautic Boat Show in Paris, the French Sailing Federation honored the sport at the Top Clubs 2022 ceremony. A rewarding event where the best clubs and best sailing schools, as well as professional staff and volunteers, were recognized. The Federation awarded seven Club Champions of France, four national trophies, and 54 regional trophies, including the "Favorite Of The Region Of Guadeloupe" presented to the Saint Barthélemy Nautical Center (CNSB), for its dynamism and dedication to making nautical sports accessible to all. Created in 1988, the club currently has 100 members. "Our small club is very proud of this recognition, which shows the love that Saint Barth has for the sea and all the nautical activities it offers," notes Hélène Guilbaud. "We will continue to expand our activities in 2023."

SAINT BARTH AND ITS BIODIVERSITY

Giant Hermit Crab

Each week, in partnership with the Territorial Environmental Agency, The St Barth Weekly invites you to discover a species (fauna or flora, terrestrial or marine) that is part of the large biodiversity of the island. This week: Giant Hermit Crab (Petrochirus diogenes)

Where do they live?

The Western Atlantic, from North Carolina to Uruguay, and especially the Caribbean sea. They can be found on sandy bottoms and in marine sea beds close to the shore. They need access to land and water.

Did you know?

- This is the largest of the hermit crabs found in the Caribbean (± 250 mm)
- Its scientific name refers to Diogenes of Sinope, an ancient Greek philosopher who lived in a barrel.

WRAPPING CHRISTMAS PACKAGES FOR SENIORS

The Red Cross organized an afternoon event in which lots of kids helped wrap decorative Christmas packages for seniors. At the same time, the association decided to donate all of the proceeds from its December 10 Christmas sale at its shop in Gustavia to benefit the Mireille Choisy Middle School. The goal of this donation is to help finance school trips for 10th graders next March and April. The students also helped with this special sale.

COMPETING IN THE COLORS OF SAINT BARTHÉLEMY

On Wednesday, December 21, the Collectivité's Sports Service presented its third series of Sports Trophies at the Christmas Village in Gustavia. Twenty-two young, top-level athletes from Saint Barth who compete in various sports around the world were honored. The ceremony also put a spotlight on the investment made by the various associations, volunteers, and instructors who have trained these talented youngsters—the current representatives of Saint Barthélemy on regional, national, and international podiums.

The 22 athletes include:

Surf: Anais Blanchard, Kalani Giraud, Célia Magras, Noé Lédée, Thomas Lédée, Tessa Thyssen
Windsurf: Delphine Cousin, Maëlle Guilbaud
Sailing: Antonin Scioux, Marvin Febrissy, Lolie Osswald, Jules Fortunati, Lorenzo Mayer, Christophe Maxor
