It's a new year!

A new page in the book of Saint Barth, as the island continues to write its history. Seems as if there are a raft of new year's resolutions the island would like us to make on its behalf.

Here's a list of ten that come to mind:

1. Investigate alternative energies to help wean the island from burning fossil fuels to generate electricity....
2. Teach people to save energy by living smarter...
3. Encourage people to use less air-conditioning and keep it at or above 24°...
4. Learn to swim in an unheated pool...
5. Plant two trees for every one cut down for new construction...
6. Look into a public transportation system to alleviate traffic and parking problems...
7. Continue to improve the island's biodiversity, from coral restoration to replanting the mangroves...
8. Keep events in scale with the size of the island...
9. Stop people from throwing trash by the roadside...
10. And to steal a phrase: live slow; sail fast...

Please feel free to add your own, so we can all enjoy life to its fullest on a very special little island. Don't let things get out of hand, so that all we are left with is nostalgia for what we lost.

Happy New Year!

15 Of 17 Lots Sold At The LuisaViaRoma Gala For UNICEF

Fifteen of the 17 lots up for auction found buyers at the LuisaViaRoma Gala held in Saint Jean on December 29. A racecar from the Tyrell stable that once belonged to film star Steve McQueen set the record at 700,000 euros. Second position went to a Land Rover Cabriolet Defender for the sum of 450,000 euros.

Only two lots were not sold: the first an eight-night stay in a luxury hotel in Zanzibar (Tanzania); the second was a visit to the champagne company of Hatt et Söner with an option for personalized bottles. Neither appealed to the buyers at the gala.

On the other hand, the lot of photographs taken in Saint Barth by Antoine Verglas was purchased for 70,000 euros. The funds from that sale will go directly to the Collectivité, which will in turn make a donation for the full amount to an association that helps children in need in Haiti.

No official report was made by the organizers in terms of the total amount of money raised. In theory, according to our information, all of the money raised at the auction should go to UNICEF. But the exact amount remains unreported.

ST BARTH MUSIC FESTIVAL: PURE PERFECTION

It's hard to imagine a better kickoff to a music festival than having three of the best musicians in the world playing "Happy Birthday" to the festival director. And that's exactly what happened on Friday evening, January 6, when the 39th St Barth Music Festival opened with a chamber music concert titled "Fanfare For Frances," in celebration of Frances DeBroff's 85th birthday. Violinist Gil Shaham, cellist Kyril Zlotnikov, and pianist Inon Barnatan went on to play a spirited concert of pure perfection with music by Debussy, Mendelssohn, and Faure.

Debussy's Sonata for Piano and Cello was written in 1915 and has a decidedly modern tone, not as romantic as other works by the French composer such as La Mer. Zlotnikov's face was as expressive as the rich tone of his cello as he caressed each note, including the pizzicato passages. Equally brilliant on the piano, Barnatan noted that the piece "has a lot of fantasy in it, and a bit of Commedia dell'arte, as if Pierrot was angry at the moon."

Shaham joined Barnatan for Gabriel Faure's Sonata for Violin and Piano in A major No.1 Op.13, pointing out that his violin is the 1719 Haupt Stradivarius on loan from Rare Violins of New York/In Consortium. As DeBroff explains, she met Shaham many years ago but this was the first time he had time to come to Saint Barth, and may not be available for years to come.

The program also included two pieces by Felix Mendelssohn: Rondo Capriccioso Opus 14 for piano; and Piano Trio in D Minor, Opus 49 for violin, cello, and piano. The first written when the composer was only 14 years old; the second containing a famous scherzo, which the trio played a second time as an encore, much to the delight of the audience. These three virtuosi had never played together before, but that is one of the great things about this festival, putting great musicians together with astounding results.

The festival continues through Sunday, January 15 with a mix of chamber music on January 12, opera on January 13, and an All-Star Revue on January 14. The closing concert on January 15 features the John Ellis Jazz Band, at 5pm at the Anglican Church in Gustavia. The band comprises John Ellis-saxophone/band leader; Kush Abady-percussion; Michael Rodriguez-trumpet; Reuben Rogers-double-bass; and Gary Versace-piano and accordion. Go early, this is usually a sold-out performance.

ATE Denounces A Deadly Christmas For Turtles

The Territorial Environmental Agency (ATE) finished 2022 by expressing its anger and exasperation in terms of certain behavior in the port and maritime zones. Their “rant” was primarily related to two incidents involving boats navigating at excessive speeds, which killed two turtles. “On Sunday, December 25, the agent on duty was contacted twice between 10am and 12pm by agents of the port who reported that two green turtles (Chelonia mydas) had been seriously injured by the propellers of a dinghy or a boat,” notes the ATE. Neither turtle survived.

“Will this year set a new record?” the ATE asks sadly. “Seven marine turtles have already been killed since the beginning of the year, and even if red is a good color for Christmas, it’s not pretty when it’s the red of turtle blood.”

The ATE asks that everyone remain vigilant: “The global sea turtle population is declining. Saint Barthélemy hosts a large population of young green turtles who feed here, but for how much longer? Recreational boaters, visitors, seasonal workers: don’t be part of the extinction of this species! Respect the speed limit of 5 knots in the zone of 300 meters from the shore and in the marine park.” And to be more specific, sea turtles are an endangered species and an attack on them can result in one year in prison and a fine of 150,000 euros.

Welcome to the 39th season of the

Yachts, Stars, Drinking, And Accidents : A Typical New Year's Eve

The holiday season took place almost without a hitch. As usual, the dock and harbor were packed with yachts and mega-yachts. According to the port director, 348 inhabited boats were counted in the port zone on New Year's Eve (compared to 305 in 2021). Of those, 213 were just visiting, while 155 are resident. Four boats were longer than 100 meters, 14 between 75 to 99 meters, 28 between 60 to 74 meters, and 47 between 45 to 59 meters. To celebrate the arrival of the New Year, 13 boats requested, and obtained, permission to have a party onboard.

It goes without saying that certain stars and celebrities rang in the new year in Saint Barth, many of whom were on the island for the UNICEF gala organized by LuisaViaRoma, including Lenny Kravitz and Drake, Mike Tyson, Cuba Gooding Jr, Naomi Watts, Tobey Maguire, and Leonardo Di Caprio, among others.

11 Incidents For The Fire Department

Less glamorous but essential in case of emergency, the territorial fire department was called upon 11 times on New Year's Eve. "Twice as many as usual," remarks lieutenant Christophe Laurens. Other than the safety measures put in place for the fire-works, there were two road accidents, one in Marigot involving three cars, at around 3:45am, without serious injury. Two of the three drivers had more alcohol in their blood than the legal limit. The other accident was at 5am in Gustavia, also without any victims. There were a few people who were sick or in a drunken state and required help, and in a rare situation, there were two medical evacuations at the same time, for people who needed urgent care.

In his end of the year report, the chief of the fire department notes that during 2022, they had 1,240 interventions, compared to 1,003 in 2021.

New Year's Eve Control By The Gendarmerie

On the night from Saturday to Sunday, the gendarmes were also on call, holding a drunk-driver control by the infirmary on the way out of Gustavia. Six stopped vehicles resulted in five people with alcohol in their blood. "There were also a few small accidents but nothing serious," explains captain Bassier.

Art Saint Barth Presents 'Art For Our Oceans'

The Territorial Council of Saint Barthélemy is joining forces with Art Saint Barth, a cultural association founded by Philippe Combres and Jenny Mannerheim, and Parley for the Oceans to present a one-of-a-kind program 'Art For Our Oceans' this winter to raise awareness for the beauty and fragility of the environment, as we are at a critical moment in time to create an impact on our oceans. They will unveil American artist Doug Aitken's new large-scale installation, Underwater Pavilions, to highlight the ecology of the island, with the support of The Territorial Environment Agency, and local associations in St Barth.

At the same time, Art Saint Barth x Parley will show the work of world-renowned contemporary artists including Katharina Grosse, Ed Ruscha, Jeppe Hein, Kenny Scharf, Tatiana Trouvé, Julio Le Parc, Jenny Holzer, Jiří Georg Dokoupil, and Rosemarie Trockel at the Wall House Museum, December 16, 2022—February 11, 2023. Also view will be the film Underwater Pavilions produced by Aitken. The movie is atmospheric, showing the sculpture's geometric mirrors attracting the curiosity of a passing seal as well as many fish. Aitken's video projects involve the perceptual, narrative, and poetic possibilities opened up by a constantly changing global technological environment.

Combres and Mannerheim note: "We are at a moment where we see first-hand the daily destruction of the environment caused by society. Being in St Barth, we are surrounded by the magnificent blue ocean and we jointly want to protect what we love."

About the Underwater Pavilions

The Underwater Pavilions are both aesthetic and scientific and put the local marine environment and the global challenges around ocean conversation in dialogue with the history of art, inviting the viewer to write a contemporary narrative of the ocean and to participate in its protection.

The work consists of three temporary underwater sculptures, floating beneath the ocean's surface that swimmers, snorkelers, and scuba divers swim through and experience. Geometric in design, the sculptures create underwater spaces synthesizing art and science as they are constructed with carefully researched materials and will be moored to the ocean floor. Part of each structure is mirrored to reflect the underwater seascape and create a kaleidoscopic observatory for the viewer, while other surfaces are rough and rock-like.

"When we look at the oceans we see the idea of continuous change and flow continuous encounters – it's very much like the society we're creating for ourselves now in the 21st century." — Doug Aitken, Artist & Filmmaker

EXCLUSIVE PHOTOS OF BASQUIAT BY MAKOS AT GALLERY SPIRIT SPACE

Through February 28, Gallery Spirit Space in Gustavia will exhibit a series of exclusive photographs of the late artist, Jean-Michel Basquiat, taken by the acclaimed photographer Christopher Makos. His photographs have been shown in some of the most important galleries and museums in the world such as The Guggenheim in Bilbao, The Tate Modern in London, The Whitney Museum of American Art in New York, and the IVAM in Valencia, Spain. Christopher Makos also appears in the Netflix documentary “The Andy Warhol Diaries” by Ryan Murphy.

BEACH TENNIS: THIRD TOP PLAYER IN THE WORLD VISITS SAINT BARTH

Nicolas Gianotti, the third top beach tennis player in the world, was in Saint Barth during the first week in January. His visit was good news for the Ouanalao Beach Tennis Club as the champion ran a few training sessions at the courts in Saint Jean: Sessions at which 18 members of the club were able to participate. “It was quite an honor as Nicolas Gianotti was already the champion of France in 2022 and will be number three in the world this year,” notes one of the directors of the Ouanalao Club. “This training was a good opportunity to review certain techniques as well as work with the champion, whose goal is to finish as number one in the world and speak four or five languages in the next five to ten years. For the members of the club, it was a great Christmas present ... We wish Nicholas all the best for the success of his tennis career, and hope he comes back to visit us again soon!”

MAËLIA WINS NEW YEAR’S EVE PARADE

It was a beautiful day for sailing, with clear skies and winds of 15 to 18 knots, as the New Year’s Eve Parade set off around the island of Saint Barthélemy on December 31, 2022. Eight entries took part in this informal race open to sailboats of all sizes. Raphael Magras’ Maelia started at 10:10am along with Flying Nemo and Ticonderoga, and was first to cross the finish line, taking home the trophy for the day.

“The second start 11:10am included the 80’ Swan White Rhino and the 96’ Symmetry which turned into a match racing start with both boats maneuvering, tacking, and gybing through the anchored mega yacht fleet for best starting position on the line, within five seconds of each other, with Symmetry edging out, winning the start and maintaining the lead in front of White Rhino around the island,” explains Mark DelGiudice, one of the race organizers who sailed aboard Symmetry.

“The last group to start at 11:25am was the 140’ Gitana VS the 66’ Gunboat Phaedo,” DelGiudice notes. “This also turned into a close match race around the island with a spectacular start watching Gitania cross the starting line at 11 knots with Phaedo right beside them for the entire sail around the island. After sailing 24 miles around the island, Maelia was first across the finish-line just 24 seconds in front of Flying Nemo with Ticonderoga a few minutes behind. Gitana, Phaedo, and White Rhino rounded Fourchue together and sailing to the finish 20 seconds apart. The participants met at the St Barth Yacht Club at 4pm for the awards ceremony and a champagne toast: All considered winners for taking part and sailing around St Barth together!,” DelGiudice concludes.
