Carnival Time!

Celebrate Carnival In Saint Barth

The big Mardi Gras Carnival parade will snake through the streets of Gustavia on Tuesday, February 21, starting at 2:30pm. For the moment there are at least thirteen groups ready to participate with dancing, music, and fun costumes. These include Ti Ouana Salsa, Golden Team, Caribbean Girls, Island Vibes, Caribbean Girls, the most traditional group La Pointe en Mouvement, Tèt Ansanm, Hippie Camp, Dreamer, Cho Douvan (Ascco), The Youngz, Pineapple Girls, N.I.B, Nikki Beach. For several minutes in various places, including in front of the pharmacy in Gustavia, the Cour Vendôme, Le Sélect, La Cantina, Anglican Church, the Post Office, and right before arriving at the Collectivité. At each stop, the groups will show off their choreography, whose theme they are free to choose, as well as their colorful costumes. “There is always a lot of excitement and enthusiasm,” exclaims Jocari.

In addition, to guarantee the safety of everyone during the parade:

1) Drivers heading into Gustavia should park their cars on the Quai Jeanne d'Arc in Public or in the various parking lots in Saint Jean

2) Free shuttles will make round trips between Public and Saint Jean from 1pm until the end of the event, making the following stops: Parking de la République in the Industrial Zone in Public; Parking Super U; Fire Station; Sports Stadium; Parking by Pearl Beach; and toward Gustavia as far as Public.

The Eagles had it!

Well at least at halftime they had a 10-point lead heading into the locker room. But it seems like they had their feathers plucked before the second half, when they eventually lost to Kansas City. Anyone who follows American football knows I am talking about the Super Bowl, the holy grail of the NFL. The game has become an annual ritual in Saint Barth where Super Bowl parties abound, in various restaurants, bars, and private homes, and just like in the States, chicken wings, burgers, potato chips, and other “American snacks” are consumed as the fans discuss the performance of the players, the good and bad calls by the referees, and the use of video review for contested moves. And of course the Super Bowl Halftime Show, an amazing feat of design and technology!

Also an annual island ritual is the Carnival celebration, with the big parade on Fat Tuesday or Mardi Gras when hundreds of residents and tourists take to the streets of Gustavia. But the Mardi Gras parade includes other Carnival events such as the kids parade which took place before their vacation this week, and parades on Monday in pajamas and a parade dressed in black and white on Ash Wednesday for the burning of Vaval in a big bonfire on Shell Beach. That is something to behold and worth a detour if you haven't experienced it before.

The juxtaposition of these events marks the conflux of communities in Saint Barth— island natives, metropolitan French, Portuguese, American ex-pats, post-Brexit Brits, and others— creating our own little melting pot of cultures. And a recently completed census should tell us exactly how many of us there are living on this little “rock.”

Agricultural Development Projects In Saint Barth

A delegation of 10 people led by the director of the Overseas Office for Agricultural Development and Economy met with various island agriculturalists on Friday, February 3.

The creation of an association for agriculturalists in Saint Barth (APAG) in 2022 has been a topic of some interest. At least on the part of the Overseas Office for Agricultural Development and Economy (ODEADOM), which resulted in a visit to some of the agricultural operations on the island by a delegation of 10 people on Friday, February 3. A means to satisfy their curiosity by way of meetings and discussions in the presence of Jacques Andrieu, the director of ODEADOM, prefect Vincent Berton, representatives of the Overseas Ministry and from the various ministries for overseas agricultural transformation, a few officials from the Collectivité, and of course the director of the Multi-professional Economic Chamber. Sébastien Gréaux, director of the Territorial Environmental Agency (ATE), was also part of the delegation. Their cortege drove around the island to better understand the many challenges linked to the development of the agricultural sector in Saint Barth.

The day began with a visit to Marianne Laplace's Saveurs Peyi in Vitet. A site which, like others, suffers from a lack of space. The entire delegation then met around the conference room table in the territorial council chambers at the Collectivité to discuss perspectives for development. Notably, the presentation of a pilot project that would provide the means for production on a larger scale.

Greenhouses That Produce Energy

Provide land to cultivate, establish preferential water rates, generate financial aid to pay for infrastructure, adopt solar energy, plant fruit trees, develop aquaponics, plant a mushroom bed... there is no end to the suggestions. One of the more innovative ideas for the island would be to build large greenhouses that produce energy. These structures would be designed using architecture integrated into the environment, primarily by placing them partially underground. A project which, when presented in detail, seemed to pique the interest of the visitors. However, they quickly resumed their tour to discover the rest of Saint Barth.

After a visit to the future slaughterhouse, the delegation stopped by La Main Verte, run by Jean-Michel Vial, in Grand-Cul-de-Sac. Each of these operations faces its challenges: for this one, bad orientation and a lack of water. "But we manage to grow things anyway," says one of his employees with a smile.

Enriched by their day of observations and information, the members of the delegation continued on their way to Paris, Guadeloupe, or Saint Martin.

National Steering Committee For The Fight Against Sargassum Meets

A committee to battle the presence of sargassum seaweed was created in Saint Barthélemy in September 2022. Within this framework, the Collectivité, as well as interested local parties, were able to take part in a meeting of the National Steering Committee For The Fight Against Sargassum, which was held on Wednesday, February 1, and led by the French Overseas Minister. Marie-Angèle Aubin, third vice-president of the Collectivité and responsible for environmental issues, took part via video conferencing. “All of those responsible for the fight against this climatic scourge in the West Indies were present to discuss the efforts put into action as part of the national plan adopted for the period of 2022-2025,” explains the Collectivité. More than 50 people from such sectors as health-care, fishing, and safety, for example, were part of the meeting.

The national plan features 26 measures whose goals are to gather knowledge about sargassum in order to better prevent invasions along the shore. A sum of 36 million euros has been dedicated to this effort. During the recent committee meeting, the work done over the past six months by three working groups (resources, healthcare, and research) was presented.

In addition, it was noted that Guadeloupe and Martinique were more advanced as they have already done what it takes to create a Public Interest Group. However, taking into account the recent creation of committees in the Northern Islands, the Collectivité notes that the representative of the Overseas Minister “clearly indicated in his conclusion that he commended the Northern Islands for their initiatives.”

In 2022, the Collectivité of Saint-Barthélemy invested close to 1.6 million euros for the collection of close to 12000 tons of sargassum that had washed up along its coasts.

TREMENDOUS JOHNSON BLUES BAND BACK IN SAINT BARTH

A group of friends from the United States gathers every year in Saint Barth, morphing from a variety of day jobs to become the members in the Tremendous Johnson Blues Band. This tradition began back in the late 80s and the band has transformed over the years to include a variety of musicians, with the Saint Barth gigs the only time they all play together. And they are back! Shows this weekend are on Friday evening, February 17 at Le Select in Gustavia, and Sunday, February 19 at Le Grain de Sel in Saline, starting at 12pm for the afternoon. Reservations are strongly recommended at Le Grain de Sel, as their performances are usually standing-room-only!

ALAIN LE CHATELIER AT LES ARTISANS, THROUGH MARCH 3, 2023

French painter Alain Le Chatelier has returned to Saint Barth for his annual winter exhibit at Les Artisans in Gustavia. His work is technically brilliant with a rich color palette that ranges from myriad vegetal greens to bold shades of red, purple, turquoise, and yellow, as well as soft natural tones. He has recently taken to painting bird feathers, nests, and eggs, often seen from a bird's eye point of view, with the eggs in decoratively enhanced nests. Another new aspect of his work is painting on a golden background—adding a sense of glamour and almost a slight Japanese feel to some of his pieces. The gold leaf he uses also peeks through on three of his most recent paintings: river scenes with dense foliage or the splash of a waterfall. Stop by the gallery to meet the artist, every afternoon from 5pm-7pm, Monday through Friday, through March 3, 2023. Or make a personal appointment by contacting Les Artisans at lesartisans@mac.com or 05 90 27 50 40.

SAINT BARTH AND ITS BIODIVERSITY

The smooth trunkfish: armored and toxic

Each week, the Journal de Saint-Barth invites you, in partnership with the Territorial Environment Agency, to discover a species (fauna, flora, terrestrial or marine) that populates the vast biodiversity of the island. This week, the smooth trunkfish (Lactophrys triqueter).

Where does it live?

This fish generally lives near sandy or rocky bottoms as well as near coral reefs, at depths that vary between 5 and 50 meters.

What does it eat?

The smooth trunkfish feeds on algae, crustaceans, mollusks, worms, sea cucumbers, crabs, or sponges. It dislodges its prey by sending a jet of water with its mouth.

Did you know?

This fish is born hermaphrodite (that is to say, it has both male and female organs) and only takes on a male character during its growth. Its body is protected by an external skeleton, a kind of natural shielding. When it feels threatened, the smooth trunkfish produces toxic mucus that deters predators. On the other hand, if it uses this deterrent weapon in a confined environment, it will be fatal for both the fish and his assailant.

A CMA CGM Cargo Ship Ran Aground In The Port

Late on the evening of Friday, February 3, a cargo ship carrying sea containers ran aground on a rocky outcropping close to the commercial dock in Public. An investigation is underway to discover the reason for this incident.

It was just after 11pm on Friday, February 3, when a cargo ship owned by the company CMA CGM entered the harbor of Saint Barthélemy. A few minutes later, this imposing container-carrier, which was moving slowly, embedded itself on the rocky outcropping located right after the entrance to the commercial dock. The incident was filmed by passersby, and the nighttime images are quite dramatic as Le Mimer, like a ghost ship, literally made a bee-line for the rocks.

The director of the port was immediately alerted as well as the Regional Operational Monitoring and Rescue Center (CROSS), the gendarmerie, and of course the Collectivité. Ernest Brin, director of the port, met with the commandant of the cargo ship, who assured him that no one on board had been injured. Neither on land or at sea, which is almost miraculous (read below).

A Tugboat From Sint Maarten To The Rescue

The first attempts to release the grounded ship were not successful. A tugboat from Saint Maarten arrived in Saint Barth a little after 5am. By 6:10am, the boat had been freed from the rocks. “Without any major issues,” comments Ernest Brin. “The boat had some slight damage but nothing serious.” Le Mimer was able to make the necessary maneuvers to get to the commercial dock.

An Investigation Underway

Since the accident, there has not been an information from the company CMA CGM to explain the “bee-line” and washing aground in the port. The management of the company, based in Marseille, told the Le Journal de

Saint-Barth “that the shipping company (Godby Shipping AB in Finland) and CMA CGM are collaborating fully with the authorities to determine the circumstances of this accident and make sure it doesn’t happen again.” An official inquiry has been opened in order to comprehend why Le Mimer cargo ship ran aground in this manner.

Whether it was negligence or an error in navigation, the only certitude is that the absence of any serious injury is almost a miracle. “All’s well that ends well,” says the director of the port, relieved. “But we were very lucky that the cargo ship did not enter the two mooring areas and did not hit any boats as there are many people who sleep aboard. We were also lucky that it did not touch the intake valves for the desalination plant.” The reasons for this incident remain to be determined.

News briefs

NEWS FROM THE ANGLICAN CHURCH

Reverend Charles Vere Nicholl has returned to St Bartholomew's Anglican Church in Gustavia as Honorary Resident Priest. He first joined the church as vicar in 2002, then retired in 2016. He has remained part of the church family, often officiating at baptisms, weddings and funerals, as well as stepping in to celebrate mass both in-person and virtually, especially during the pandemic. Founded in the 1850's the church has a 501C3 charitable foundation (making donations tax-deductible for Americans) and its active weekly schedule includes the one-hour Family Eucharist Service on Sunday morning—with a new start time of 9:30am. Additional activities include the 7pm Tuesday evening Taizé service, Thursday evening's 7pm meditation group led by Diana Bourel, a Sunday morning coffee hour on Zoom after services, and an informal book group, which meets monthly via Zoom. The next meeting will be on Monday, February 20, at 6pm island time/5pm ET and the book to be discussed is A Man Called Ove by Fredrik Backman. REGULATIONS IN EFFECT
IN THE RÉSERVE NATURELLE

Following two accidents that took place in the Réserve Naturelle de Saint-Barthélemy, and which required rescue operations, the Territorial Environmental Agency points out that there are safety regulations in effect. First, the speed limit is 5 knots in all waters of the Réserve Naturelle, including the bays and a distance of 300 meters from the coast, as well as less than 100 meters from the islets around Saint Barth. This speed limit guarantees the safety of all (swimmers, sea turtles....) as well as overall tranquility of the sites. In addition, a signalization buoy is obligatory for all persons practicing scuba diving or underwater aqua trekking. No boats can go within 100 meters of that buoy. Finally, in the lagoon at Grand Cul-de-Sac, kite-surfing is only authorized more than 50 meters from the shore (other than getting the kite into the water) and is officially prohibited on the coral reef.

NEW TRAFFIC PATTERNS; NEW TRAFFIC
CIRCLE ON THE DRAWING BOARD

For the moment, there are only a few modifications to the traffic patterns in St Barth. Yet these are a harbinger of things to come, as the new territorial council continues to improve the flow of traffic on the island's roads. The first change was new signage that informs all drivers of their speed as they descend the hill from Coupe Gorge toward the small traffic circle near Villa Créole in Saint Jean. There is also a new, solid white line that indicates a no-passing zone along the entire length of the curve where a 25-year-old on a quad was killed a few months ago.

For less dramatic reasons, two additional traffic modifications have been implemented: one at Super U; the second leaving the parking lot at the airport. These changes means that drivers coming from Saint Jean cannot turn left to go to Super U; and those leaving the parking lot at the airport are also no longer able to turn left. They must all continue as far as the traffic circle at La Tourmente and come back in the direction of Saint Jean to turn right for the supermarket or continue on their way.

To leave the road that leads to Super U, after respecting the Stop sign, drivers can turn left or right onto route 209A. These new rules are but temporary, as the Collectivité plans to create a new traffic circle to replace these intersections.

Carnival Time!

It's that time of year when revelers start getting ready to dance in the streets for Mardi Gras, and honor Vaval, the king of Carnival. 2023 looks like a good vintage, with various groups marching in fabulous costumes and musical trucks to add ambiance to the parade. Carnival schedule below

► Saturday, February 18 at 4:30pm: A parade with a pirate theme for kids six and under, organized by the Association Bout d'Chou, will set out from the Quai du Général de Gaulle. The itinerary will take the young revelers along the Rue du Bord de Mer, before turning left on Rue Samuel Fahlberg then Rue Oscar II. They will then take the Rue de la Suède to get back to the dock.

► Monday, February 20 at 7pm: Parade In Pajamas in Gustavia: Meet La Pointe En Mouvement at their atelier above the Treasury in Gustavia.

► Tuesday, February 21 at 2:30pm: Mardi Gras Parade in Gustavia.

The big parade starts at the commercial dock in Gustavia, and winds along the waterfront to the far side of the harbor and back to the main dock.

► Wednesday, February 22 at 7pm: Burning of Vaval. An evening parade in Black and White in the streets of Gustavia with an effigy of Vaval, the Carnival King, to be burned in a big bonfire on Shell Beach. A dramatic ending to the Carnival celebrations.

Cabaret

► From Tuesday to Saturday
• Dinner cabaret show at 9pm @ Ti St Barth
