KAY QUATTROCCHI Sailing in St Barth

It's that time of year again: The Bucket! Or more formally the St Barth Bucket Regatta, which started out as the Nantucket Bucket, then launched a winter edition in our warmer tropical waters in 1995. Having survived hurricanes and covid, the Bucket is going strong, with organizers, owners, captains, and crews having arrived in full force, adding a buzz to the town of Gustavia and its small port. A beehive of activity for Bucket week, the Port does a great job handing these big beauties, a fleet of close to 40 racing and social-only boats, all over 90' in length. Check out our listings with photos for details about each boat in the regatta and stroll along the dock for some nautical eye-candy.

In addition to the Bucket races and shoreside events, there are a lot of art exhibits taking place at local galleries such as Space in Gustavia (which sells the official Bucket poster for charity) and hotels — from Cheval Blanc to Le Barthélemy— with island-based or international artists and photographers including Cory Silken, Kay Quattrocchi, and Michael Kurtz showing off their Bucket-related work. Plus, there is an art party at the Christopher with 18 artists showing their work in a breezy setting by the sea.

This is all part of the charm of St Barth. Even as one struggles to find a place to park in town, or gets stuck in a traffic jam for a few minutes, the carrot at the end of the stick is always tasty. A special place with a special appeal at these special times of the year. See you at The Bucket!

Art Party At Christopher Hotel

The Art Party organized by the Artists of St-Barth takes place on March 21 at Christopher Hotel, featuring the work of 18 artists.

After a break of almost two years, the Artists of St Barth are hosting an Art Party at the Christopher Hotel, Thursday, March 21, starting at 7pm. The events features 18 artists inspired by Saint Barthélemy.

Since it was founded in 2016, the Artists of St Barth association has organized 22 Art Parties, 12 of which have been at the Christopher in Pointe Milou. The goal is to allow residents and tourists to discover the work of various artists and the art scene in Saint Barth. Over the years, these pop-up events have become very popular, such as the last one in May 2022, attracting close to 400 hundred people.

At the March 21 party, there will be five photographers, three painters, seven sculptors and designers, as well as two illustrators and a jeweler. Also exhibiting is fashion photographer Antoine Verglas, president of the association since 2019. The musical tone will be set by Sébastien Roche.

Guest artists:

A Galaxy Of Special Guests At the Book & Jazz Festival

Celebrating its 22nd year of cultural activities, the Saint-B'Art association kicked off the Book & Jazz Festival on Monday, March 18, with myriad guest artists on the program, which runs through Sunday, April 7.

A touch of art, culture, and divertissement is always good for the soul. Which is exactly the goal of the Saint-B'Art association as it celebrates its 22nd cultural season with another great roster for the Book & Jazz Festival. On the menu? A mix of special events and concerts, presented with a dash of love. "We have a lot in store for you," promises Christian Hardelay, president of the association. "You are going to really like our writers, musicians, and singers, and we're happy to share this artistic wealth with you so that you have a truly amazing experience!"

Five Literary Artists

The first phase of the Festival, dedicated to books, runs through Saturday, March 23, with guest writers and illustrators participating in artistic ateliers at the island's schools, as well as public events and book signings. This year, there are five guests for the Book Festival: illustrators Véronique Massenot and Sébastien Chebret; author/journalist Alain Gardinier, comic book designer Renaud Garreta, and writer/poet/actor Hicham Nazzal.

A Galaxy Of Musicians

Jazz takes center stage as of Thursday, March 21 with musical workshops in the schools featuring French singer/composer/songwriter Thomas Khan, who performed at the Festival in 2023. This artist with endless energy, known as the "little prince of soul," was a big hit with the public in Saint Barth. His return is highly anticipated, with the expectation that he will once again put on a great show. He is accompanied by Eric Pigeon and Léo Moulin on saxophone, Thomas Perier on keyboards, Kevin Diagne on bass, Julien Fihol on guitar, Baptiste Onzon on drums, and Seb Depeige on trumpet.

Annie Lalalove and her quartet also hail from France. Pop spiced with jazz, delicately melancholic, Annie Lalalove's music and voice are described as sure to cure the blues. She is accompanied by Julien Audigier on drums, Vincent Echard on trumpet, and Vincent Martinez on guitar.

Finally, the V. H. Sambin Sextet, featuring singer Véronique Hermann Sambin from Guadeloupe, whose lyrics are inspired by Caribbean islands and their heritage. She performs with Régis Thérèse on bass, Georges Granville on piano, Xavier Richardeau on saxophone, Yoann Danier on drums, and Ralph Lavalital on guitar.

Christian Hardelay applauds the indispensable support by Jonathan Chassaing (lighting) and Léo Moulin (sound) throughout the Festival. He also underlines the importance of the association's partnership with Richard Mille, who provides "lasting support that enables the association's volunteers to imagine and develop cultural projects at the crossroads of the past, the future, culture, and the environment."

Kay Quattrocchi at Le Barthélemy

The Art Of Sailing

Kay Quattrocchi is an artist with wind in her sails. Not only interested in the world of astrophysics, from The Higgs Boson, neutrinos and anti-matter to black holes, and gravitational waves, she is also fascinated by the notion of the multi-verse and the quantum field. Her ultimate goal is to transcribe the movement of particles through her artistic creations as she explores the links that exist between Art and Science, between Conscience and The Universe. She is also a fan of the St Barth Bucket Regatta and every year since 1995, she has paid tribute to The Bucket fleet by creating a special piece of art for the regatta. This year she has a solo exhibit "Sailing In Saint Barth," with her evocative paintings, which are like haiku poems, at Le Barthélemy through April 11.

"One day, a Japanese friend who is passionate about haiku said to me: "yes you draw very well, But!...one day you will be able to try to put only some lines, some colors and we will feel the wind, the sea, the movement of the sails, without other details, just the presence of that, and there you will see me coming to say to you: here is that it is the true work!" He is no longer here, my so kind friend from Japan, but I followed his advice, I hope that the drops of water from the sea and the wind will come to caress your face and make you feel the emotions of these champions who run on the water with their sublime yachts, every year they fill our harbor and our heart, it is a feast to nature and to life!"

As a result, Kay Quattrocchi has captured the art of sailing. "The blue lines twirl announcing the race, carried by the wind, the sea... boats are powerful upwind, spinnaker open, forgetting everything in their path, they continue, cross rough seas accompanying challenge, they are champions... without exception, the best, but only one will win...these same lines sometimes calm down and talk to each other passage of time and the beauty of life," says the artist. "The brushes come and go, the blues collide, emotions and movements of deep water colors, joyful or wild; hard or soft blues, murmuring also sometimes...the artist wanted this collection in the manner of a haiku...putting her feelings of wind, water, sails, rather than the form, juts the spirit of this form..."

As an ambassador of St Barth, she has created trophies for the winners of a photo contest held by the Gustavia Yacht Club for the best images of the Bucket Regatta, and has offered her work on behalf of island president Bruno Magras to heads of state (Polynesia, Monaco, etc). Catch her work as she sails in the spirit of The Bucket.

St Barth Bucket 2024

The Power Of Sailing

Tall masts stretching to the sky, spinnakers unfurled to the wind, majestic sailboats over 90' in length flexing their muscles as they sail around the island in the 2024 St Barth Bucket. With races on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, March 22-24, The Bucket is a prestigious annual regatta that brings a fleet of impressive yacht to the Port of Gustavia. "Every year is different as you know," comments Bucket event manager Jeanne Kleene. It's always an interesting mix of new and older superyachts. This year Peter Craig, event director and race chairman, and his expert consultants established six classes: Les Gazelles, Les Elegantes, Les Petites Dames (90' boats), L'Esprit-1 (Corinthian Spirit), - Les Mademoiselles, L'Esprit-2 (Corinthian Spirit), and an additional Open Performance class. It's very exciting to see the Corinthian Spirit with 11 entries in two classes. This concept—no spinnakers, fewer crew, less expense and race preparation—has really caught on."

Of the 34 boats set to sail, first-timers include Nilaya, a familiar name back with a brand new 47m Royal Huisman-built boat, as well as 2023 builds including: Zemi, 34m Baltic Yachts/McKeon; Maximus, 59m Vitters/Frers; Gelliceaux, 33m Southern Wind/Farr. Also new to The Bucket in the Corinthian Spirit Class: L'Hippocampe, 30m Nautor Swan/Frers; Namuun, 33m Urkmezler/Hoek; and Red Sky, 30m Nautor Swan/Frers.

The traditional races (and things can change due to weather and wind conditions) Friday is the "Around the Island" counter clockwise, Saturday is the "Wiggley course to the southwest of the island and Sunday is the "Wrong Way Around" Course (clockwise).

Michael Kurtz: Bucket Photos At Cheval Blanc

During the St Barth Bucket (March 21-24), the Gustavia Yacht Club is presenting a series of photographs by Michael Kurtz at Cheval Blanc in Flamands. The exhibit covers 10 years of this fabulous regatta, which features some of world's most prestigious yachts.

Always passionate about sailing, German photographer Michael Kurtz started to work in the mid-80's as an insurance broker for Pantaenius, focusing on yachts. After seeing an exhibit of images from the world of yachting, he began his career in the very specialized world of nautical photography.

years. All kinds of actual accidents, fraud, hurricanes, catastrophes, and lots of crazy stories. My motivation is to keep these unique and ephemeral moments frozen in time, and available to anyone who might be interested."

"Taking photos has always been my passion," explains the photographer. "I needed images, as well as a typewriter, to document the boat claims I had to handle all over the world for over 20

A member of the Yacht Club of Monaco, Michael Kurtz has been shooting photos of the St Barth Bucket for over 12 years. This exhibit, which runs through March 25 at the luxury hotel on the beach in Flamands, comprises a selection of images from the past 10 years of the Bucket.

AROUND THE BUCKET

Class Divisions

The 2024 St Barth Bucket racing fleet* of 34 boats is divided into a total of seven classes:

- Class A-Les Gazelles: Four performance-oriented yachts with the fastest ratings in fleet, low DLR and LOA's between 47-60m. All feature high upwind sail area/displacement ratios and extremely high downwind sail area/displacement ratios, with none having to furl jibs to tack.
- Class B-Les Elegantes: All five are sloops, not rated as fast as those in Class A. They have similar waterline lengths and upwind and downwind sail area/displacement ratios, with a reasonably tight rating band of 34 seconds/mile.
- Class C-Les Petites Dames: These three sloops feature the same designer and builder and an extremely tight rating band of 16 secs/mile.
- Class D-L'Esprit-1: This class features the smaller of the 11 non-spinnaker Corinthian Spirit class entries (LOA 30-33m / Displ 90-115 ton). All six are sloops. Three of the six yachts in class are racing with headsails set flying (not spinnakers).
- Class E-Les Mademoiselles: This six-yacht class features a mix of different rigs all with high DLR and low upwind and downwind sail area/displacement ratios. The rated speeds are considerably slower than the yachts in classes A and B.
- Class F-L'Esprit-2: This is the second of the non-spinnaker Corinthian Spirit classes. All five are large superyachts (45-77m; 240-720 tons) with relatively low sail area/displacement ratios.
- Class O-Open Performance: This 'open performance class' is comprised of the four Class A yachts and one racing superyacht, Spirit of Malouen. This combined racing/cruising class will have separate trophies.

Spectators On Boats:

It is a wonderful opportunity to be able to follow the St Barth Bucket fleet in your own boat. However, please be aware that these giant sailboats move at great speeds and their capacity to maneuver quickly in case of emergency during the regatta is extremely limited—that is to say, virtually impossible! If the race committee asks you to stay clear, please follow their instructions.

Security Notice:

The Direction of The Port and Maritime Affairs would like to inform all those who use the port that during the Saint Barth Bucket Regatta, March 21-24, a certain number of the Bucket boats are at the dock and have priority during all maneuvers in the port. In addition, during all of the Bucket races, it is requested that all recreational boats remain very cautious and not get too close to the racing boats, which are very powerful under sail and difficult to maneuver. The Direction of The Port and Maritime Affairs wishes you a wonderful nautical week and reminds you to stay safe when out on the water.

The Best Spots to Watch The Bucket

The hills of Lurin, Toiny, Pointe Milou, the top of Anse des Cayes, and the lookout point in Colombier, as well as the park behind the hospital in Gustavia. Another good vantage point is a table at your favorite beachfront restaurant as you enjoy a leisurely lunch and watch the boats sail by.

Fort Karl in Gustavia will be open daily 10 – Noon for viewing and is a great way to view the starts. The starts are staggered with the slowest yachts starting the first and the fastest last. The starting sequence goes from 11:30am until approximately 1:00pm.
